Panelist 1

Score: Yes

Panelist 2

Score: Yes

This project meets CAC's criteria. Although there is quite a bit of slack in the way RF defines community, many other things exhibit public benefit. Examples include choosing a central location easy for parents/youth to attend, forming community partner-resident relationships, and seeking to creatively address their community's health needs. This project is artistically/culturally vibrant and has decent organizational capacity, though room to evolve seems under-explored. The unique goal promises to serve the community beyond the 4 courses in a "give a man to fish, he eats for a day; teach a man to fish, he eats for a lifetime" way. But this project gives out a (custom) fishing pole too.

Panelist 3

Score: Yes

Specific identification of partners, and person leading the organization is from the community it serves. Board commitment to fundraising and matching funds is always a strength, addition of custom skates/design added plus. Support Material of kids skating would be a good addition.
