Data at Work: Introduction to DataArts Analytic Tools

Watch Recording Here

Presented by SMU DataArts

Once you have completed a Cultural Data Profile, the SMU DataArts platform offers a wealth of tools and research utilizing your data. This webinar will cover recent research reports that illuminate sector-wide trends. We'll also cover the basics of running analytic reports on your data, whether you want to run a trend report to see changes at your organization over time or a comparison report to benchmark against a group of peer organizations. Finally, we'll provide an overview of the KIPi Dashboard and other free tools offered through SMU DataArts.

SMU DataArts – Getting Started with the CDP

Watch Recording Here

Presented by SMU DataArts

CAC requires a SMU DataArts Funder Report to be generated and uploaded as a required support material for Project Support applications (two most recently completed fiscal years – required for organizations applying for grants of more than $5,000). We recommend starting this well before the application deadline and offer this workshop to support you in this process.

Attendees will learn how to participate in SMU DataArts' online platform for data collection, produce reports, and gain insights into the cultural sector. This session includes the basics of how to complete the Cultural Data Profile (CDP), how to apply to participating grantmakers using the system, and how to access DataArts' free analytics and educational opportunities. This session is ideal for users new to the Cultural Data Profile.
